

On the Corposphere: Towards a Cartography of the Body

José Enrique Finol¹

«Notre corps est un ensemble de significations vécues».

M. Merleau-Ponty, Phénoménologie de la Perception (1945)

"The body is a threshold between a person and the world (...) it's the place where the world appears and manifests itself before me and is also the object that establishes me in the world. The body provides

¹ José Enrique Finol is emeritus professor at the University of Zulia, in Maracaibo, Venezuela, where he has founded the Research Laboratory on Semiotics and Anthropology. He has developed, among others, a line of research on Anthropo-Semiotics of the body that has led to a number of articles, books, lectures and seminars; recently he chaired the seminar on Semiotics of the body, held at the International Semiotics Institute, in Imatra, Finland, June 2011. He has published more than ninety academic articles and edited a number of journals and books. Currently he is vice-president of the International Association for Semiotic Studies and honorary president of the Latin American Federation of Semiotics. Contact: Laboratorio de Investigaciones Semióticas y Antropológicas (LISA) Universidad del Zulia Facultad de Ciencias Apartado 526 / Web: www.corposfera.com / E-mail: joseenriquefinol@gmail.com